"The Navy on the Monterey Peninsula," commemorating the 80th anniversary of the Naval Postgraduate School.*

About the back cover:

When President Theodore Roosevelt, shown in front of the Hotel Del Monte, ordered the White Fleet (top) on a world cruise in 1907, no one expected the Del Monte would one day become a school for the U.S. Navy.

Based on lessons learned during the Great White Fleet's memorable cruise, the Navy established an advanced education program in steam engineering that later became the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School.

Beginning in attic classrooms of the Naval Academy, the school made a transcontinental move to Monterey in the early 1950s, forever changing the historic Del Monte into a prestigious educational institution.

Reporting Aboard

onsider yourself fortunate. Within a short time, you will be living and working in one of the most beautiful areas of the country. Here's an advance welcome to the Navy on the Monterey Peninsula.

This book was put together to help you prepare for your move and to provide a guide for your first few weeks in the area. Once you're settled, the guide also will be a handy reference for services and activities.

For detailed information about history, tourism and area recreational spots, you are encouraged to contact the area chambers of commerce.

Here's one tip, though, before you begin your move — don't pack away all your winter clothes for the mover to take. Even though you will be in balmy California — and the weather is beautiful — it does get a bit nippy at times around the Monterey Peninsula, especially in the mornings and evenings.

Temporary Family Quarters

The Navy has no temporary family housing in the Monterey area. However, nearby Fort Ord has guest housing to accommodate families regardless of military service or grade. Reservations should be made 60 days in advance of arrival date by phone, mail or in person to Fort Ord Guest Housing, P.O. Box 65, Fort Ord, CA 93941; (408) 242-3181 or 394-8103, autovon 929-3181. Located in Martinez Hall at Fort Ord, the Guest Housing Office is open seven days a week from 0645 until 2300.

Because the Monterey Peninsula is a resort area, motel reservations must be booked in advance, especially during summer months. There are also many annual events such as the AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament, Monterey Jazz Festival, Can-Am Auto Racing at Laguna Seca and the California Air Show, which make it difficult and costly to obtain accommodations on short notice.

Civilian Personnel

The Navy is one of the Peninsula's largest civilian employers; over 1,000 people are employed in a variety of positions ranging from scientific and research positions to trades, administrative and clerical positions.

Spouses can often find employment opportunities through job fair programs sponsored by the personnel office. These job fairs bring employers from major peninsula businesses to the school to recruit new employees. There are also many job opportunities for spouses at the Postgraduate School.

To obtain information about job opportunities or employee benefits, contact the Civilian Personnel Office located in Room 129, Herrmann Hall, at the Naval Postgraduate School. The telephone number is (408) 646-2001.

Reporting In

Personnel with orders for duty at the Naval Postgraduate School are required to report dressed in the uniform of the day. Stop first at the Quarterdeck, located inside the main entrance of Herrmann Hall, to have orders endorsed. During working hours (0800-1630, Monday thru Friday) or at 0800 on the next working day, go to the Correspondence and Records Office in Room 131, Herrmann Hall.

A new program, "One Stop Check-In," allows students to complete the check-in process within a couple of hours. The program is scheduled prior to calling the Correspondence and Records Office, commercial (408) 646-2789 or autovon 878-2789. Non-Navy personnel should call 646-2022 or autovon 878-2022. After working hours, the Quarterdeck is a good source of information; call (408) 646-2441 or autovon 878-2441.

Navy pay and personnel records are maintained by Personnel Support Detachment, Monterey (PSD), located in the East Wing of Herrmann Hall. Navy personnel will be directed by the Correspondence and Records Office when to report to PSD for processing.

Bachelor Quarters

Herrmann Hall looks more like a hotel than an academic facility. In fact, it was once the Hotel Del Monte, a large 19th century resort. It is still a hotel for some, and might even be where you spend your first night in Monterey.

The NPS Bachelor Officer Quarters are divided into temporary and permanent resident rooms in Herrmann Hall. Permanent rooms are available to single military officers on permanent change of station orders.

Requests to be placed on the PCS waiting list should be submitted to the NPS BQ officer at least six months prior to arrival. Temporary BOQ rooms house Defense Resources Management Education Center and Aviation Safety Program students and others assigned to NPS on orders. Reservations should be made as soon as an arrival date is known. Bachelor Enlisted Quarters are located in Buildings 205 and 259 on Cunningham Road.

All officer and enlisted bachelor personnel assigned to NPS or its tenant commands and all those on TAD/TDY orders must report to the central assignment/record desk (CARD), next to the Quarterdeck, for room assignments and keys. TAD personnel that cannot be accommodated in Herrmann Hall will be booked into contract quarters hotels through the BOQ office.

Further information may be obtained 24 hours a day by calling the CARD, (408) 464-2060/69 or autovon 878-2060/69.

Getting Settled

One of your main concerns will be to find quarters on the peninsula. There is an 877-unit officer housing area at La Mesa Village. Enlisted family housing is located at Fort Ord. Unfortunately, government housing additions on the peninsula have not kept up with demand and private rentals have been at a premium for many years. The rental market is active and prices continuously change.

In general, rents will be less expensive in Seaside, Marina and Salinas, but expect to pay $550 or more for a one bedroom apartment. Two-, three- and four-bedroom units are appreciably higher.

Prospective buyers can expect to pay more for less than at their previous duty station. Median selling prices for housing in area communities are: Pebble Beach, $282,000; Carmel, $232,000; Carmel Valley, $229,000; Monterey, $183,300; Pacific Grove, $178,700; Marina, $131,000; and Seaside, $106,500. In Monterey and Carmel building lots range from $75,000 to $135,000.

La Mesa Village

More than half of the Naval Postgraduate School student families live in this government housing complex, located about one and one-half miles from the school campus. La Mesa also houses military faculty members and other military families stationed around the peninsula.

La Mesa is a self-contained village that offers a convenience store, beauty salon, six tennis courts, little league fields and numerous playgrounds. A public elementary school, La Mesa Grade School, is also located there. It runs on a school year that is designed to conform to the NPS schedule.

La Mesa Village offers 34 floor plans. Housing designs range from two-story townhouses to single homes with fireplaces, to quadraplexes and duplexes. Yard size varies.

Your rank and the number of children you have determines which houses are available to you.

If sufficient choices are available, the housing office may offer you two alternative floor plans. Open choices of specific floor plans cannot be accommodated. If you don't like the first housing unit offered, you may pass it up. The second plan offered must be accepted or your name will be removed from the housing waiting list. You may re-apply one year after being dropped from the list, but a new control date will be assigned — the date you re-apply.

La Mesa Village features four housing areas. Wherry Housing consists of 449 units ranging in size from 811 to 1,622 square feet. With its combination of Field Grade (04-05) and Junior Grade (01-03) quarters, it is the oldest and largest area of La Mesa Village. All Wherry kitchens have been remodeled and dishwashers have been installed.

The Wherry Housing area has a mix of one- and two-story units, ranging from two to four bedrooms (some with studies), one to two baths and 117 have carports.

Capehart Housing consists of 150 Field Grade Quarters (04-05). Capehart housing ranges from 932 to 1,393 square feet with two to four bedrooms and one to two baths. All homes in Capehart have attached carports.

The Wherry or Capehart homes have medium to large lawns and are surrounded by green, open areas.

Funded Townhouses, Junior Grade Quarters (01-03) have from three to eight units per building. Most of the 160 units are two-story; all have three bedrooms but none of them have fireplaces or carports. Most of the units have small yards and all have enclosed terraces. Living areas in these units range from 1,171 to 1,228 square feet.

Funded Townhouses, two-bedroom Junior Grade (01-03); three- and four-bedroom Field Grade (04-05) are the newest in La Mesa Village. These multiple dwellings, built in 1969, consist of four to eight units per building. All are two story. Living space ranges from 1,031 square feet with two bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths to 1,406 square feet with four bedrooms and 2½ baths. As with the other Funded Townhouses, there are no carports, fireplaces or built-in dishwashers. Only a few of them have large yards.

All of the quarters in La Mesa Village are wired for 110-volt washing machines and 220-volt dryers. Commercial cable television is available, but outdoor TV antennas are prohibited.

Application for Navy housing must be accompanied by a copy of orders. Control date for placement on the waiting list is based upon the date of detachment from the previous duty station, provided advance application is made prior to detachment date and the date of detachment is confirmed within 10 days of arrival in the area, or the date that you clear government quarters, whichever is later.

Mail the completed application (on page 49 of this booklet) and a copy of your orders to: Superintendent (Code 43H), Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, 93943.

Separate waiting lists are maintained by grade categories and family size but not for specific types of quarters (i.e., Capehart, Wherry or Funded). Separate waiting lists for two-, three-, and four-bedroom requirements are maintained within each of the following categories: Senior Officer-Commander or Lieutenant Commander; Junior Officer-Lieutenant and below, including all warrant officers.

The minimum number of bedrooms to be assigned, based upon family size, will be:

Couple	2 bedrooms
Couple and 1 child	2 bedrooms
Couple and 2 children, same sex under 10	2 bedrooms
Couple and 2 children, both over 10 years	3 bedrooms
Couple and 3 children	3 bedrooms
Couple and 4 or more children	4 bedrooms

Forfeiture of BAQ and VHA for these quarters includes all utilities except telephone. Kitchen ranges and refrigerators are provided.

If you have any additional questions, contact Housing Director Greg Murphy at (408) 646-2322 or (Autovon) 878-2322.

Enlisted Housing

Since 1965, the Navy has funded construction of 130 housing units at Fort Ord, the quota of enlisted quarters designated for Naval Postgraduate School personnel in the area.

Enlisted personnel will be referred to the Fort Ord Housing Office after the Naval Postgraduate School Housing Office prepares a Notice of Eligibility. The Fort Ord Housing Office will make the quarters assignment to comply with the agreement between the Army installation and the Postgraduate School.

If a waiting list exists and you decline offered quarters suitable for your grade and family composition, your name will drop to the bottom of the waiting list.

Private Housing

If you opt for living in private housing, here are some tips.

Housing prices on the Monterey Peninsula are high. Shop around. It may be a good idea to take out a mail subscription of an area newspaper for several weeks. The classified advertisements can tell you a lot about the area and its housing prices.

There are two daily papers in the area to serve you, the Monterey Herald and Salinas Californian.

The Fort Ord Housing Referral Office conducts frequent surveys of rentals in the civilian communities. Surveys show the communities of Seaside, Marina and Salinas are, relatively, on the low side, while Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel are the most expensive.

Before you begin to negotiate for private housing, you will be required to report to the Housing Referral Office located in Martinez Hall at Fort Ord. The telephone numbers are (408) 242-2668 or 242-6344; autovon 929-6344. The office has a current listing of rental and sales opportunities that may be personally reviewed. This information normally is not given out over the telephone or by correspondence.

Before finalizing a lease agreement for housing in the local community, pass the lease document through the Postgraduate School Legal Office before you sign it. The lease should contain a so-called "military clause" or similar statement that provides for early termination under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act. Unless the lease has this statement, you are not protected against liability to a landlord for damages incurred if you have to break it.

Household Goods

The Personal Property Office at the Naval Postgraduate School handles household goods shipments to and from the Monterey area for all Defense Department personnel assigned to the Naval Postgraduate School or its tenant commands.

When autovon (878-2151) is not available and urgent communication concerning a shipment is necessary, the Household Goods Office will accept collect calls from a service member or spouse at (408) 646-2151.

Delivery and unpacking services are generally available Monday through Friday. You are responsible for making delivery arrangements with the Household Goods Office, Building 221, East Wing, Herrmann Hall, Room E-107A. Hours are 0800-1500 weekdays.

Please make certain your delivery address is correct and keep your appointment with the carrier. If the carrier tries to deliver on the date you select and you or your authorized representative are not present, you will be billed for the waiting time and redelivery costs.

Inspect your goods immediately upon delivery and report any damages to the Household Goods Office as soon as possible. Unless notification is made in writing within 70 days, the carrier will be liable only for damages to goods unpacked by the carrier. Delays in reporting damaged or missing goods may result in reductions in the amount of your claim honored by the government.

Military personnel on PCS orders have up to 90 days temporary/in-transit storage at government expense. If you are unable to accept delivery within that period, contact the household goods officer for information concerning an extension of the storage period.

Those assigned government quarters, family or bachelor, are eligible for non-temporary storage at government expense of household goods unusable in assigned housing. BOQ and BEQ residents needing non-temporary storage are required to obtain a "statement of eligibility" from the housing officer. Check with the Household Goods Office for additional information.

Schools

The Monterey Peninsula Unified School District offers an excellent school system which includes:

Elementary — Kindergarten through Grade 5.

Middle School — Grades 6 through 8.

High School — Grades 9 through 12.

As part of the educational program at all schools, the district provides a comprehensive reading, language arts, and math program, including reading and library media teachers at each location; special science and music resource teachers at the elementary level; resource specialist teachers in language arts and math at the secondary schools; special classes for handicapped or learning disabled students; classes for mentally gifted students; and alternative elementary programs available through application.

The schools which La Mesa housing area students attend are: La Mesa Elementary School (649-1872), Walter Colton Middle School (649-1951), and Monterey High School (649-1004). The staffs of these schools are familiar with the problems of military dependents and help children adjust to the new school system.

The state of California requires physical examinations for all grades. Proof of physical examination must be presented on the first day of school attendance. If your child does not have proof of a physical examination from another school, arrangements can be made for an exam through the Army Medical Clinic at the Presidio of Monterey.

Forms for the examination may be obtained at the school during the registration period prior to the start of school.

All new students must present up-to-date DPT, polio, measles (rubella) and mumps immunizations.

Parents have the opportunity to participate in the instruction of students through volunteer work as teacher aides, library assistants, office helpers and serving on school advisory committees. Contact the school's administrative office for further information.

For younger children, the NPS Preschool is available on the NPS grounds in Building 238. Services are for three-to-five-year-old children of all military and civil service employees of the NPS complex. For information, call 646-2734. The Child Development Center is also located in Building 238 for children from four weeks to 10 years old. There is a waiting list for weekdays and reservations are required at all times. The center is open also on weekends.

There is a preschool located at the Presidio for three and four-year-olds, and a pre-kindergarten class for those children who will attend kindergarten the next school year. For information, call 378-8101.

The Navy Nursery School Association is a non-profit, non-sectarian preschool for three-to-five-year-old dependents of students and faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School. The school is located at the NPS Annex on Airport Road in Monterey (three blocks east of the Monterey County Fairgrounds). The Nursery School also offers a six-week summer program called "Summer Fun." Call 375-7562 for more information.

Health Care

Health care for all active duty and retired personnel and their dependents is now being provided through PRIMUS (Primary Care for the Uniformed Services) clinics.

Two PRIMUS clinics have been established on the peninsula: one at the Presidio of Monterey, the other in Salinas.

The clinics are open week days, 0700 until 2000, and from 0700 until 1400 on weekends and holidays. Appointments are not required.

Physicians at the PRIMUS clinics will treat illnesses and injuries but not life-threatening emergencies.

Military personnel may also report to sick call at the Presidio of Monterey from 0700-0900 or 1230-1330, Monday through Friday.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Navy Medical Administrative Unit at 647-5664 or 647-5614/15.

Active duty personnel: Active duty personnel needing same day medical treatment should go on sick call, Monday through Friday, 0700-0900 or 1230-1330. Extreme emergencies will be attended to on a walk-in basis; however, walk-ins are screened and those not needing immediate attention will be directed to return for the next day's sick call.

Emergency treatment after hours: Emergencies should be directed to Silas B. Hays Army Community Hospital if the PRIMUS clinics are closed. Call 242-7631/32/33/2020 for more information.

Ambulance service: For Silas B. Hays Hospital, call 242-7631/32/33/2020. NPS and tenant commands should call 646-2333. Civilians should call 911. Please note that unless approval is given in advance by Silas B. Hays Hospital or NPS, you may have to pay the costs of using civilian ambulances, if it is deemed that use was not an emergency as defined by CHAMPUS or cognizant medical authority.

Poison control: Emergency Room, Silas B. Hays Hospital; call 242-7631/32/33/2020. Regional Poison Control Center, San Francisco; call 1-800-622-9886 or (415) 666-2845.

Immunizations: Shots are available Monday through Friday, 1300-1500, except for yellow fever which is available at the POM Health Clinic only on Wednesdays, 0700-0800, or at Silas B. Hays Hospital only on Tuesdays, 1300-1400. Bring medical records and individual records of inoculations (Form PHS 731) with you. You must remain in the clinic 20 minutes after receiving shots.

Military physicals: Military physicals should be scheduled 60 days in advance. Call 647-5614/15/64 to make appointments.

Pharmacy: Prescriptions will be filled by either the PRIMUS clinic or Silas B. Hays Army Hospital.

X-ray and laboratory services: X-ray and laboratory services are available through the PRIMUS clinics.

Naval Medical Administrative Unit: Military members must check in medical records with the Navy representative at the POM Health Clinic. Naval Medical Administrative Unit, a liaison unit of the Naval Medical Clinic located in San Francisco, is responsible for medical-records maintenance for Navy and Marine Corps personnel assigned to NPS. Times for check-in/check-out are 0700-0800 and 1300-1500 only.

No records will be released for transfer without up-to-date inoculation records. Those being transferred should provide the address of their next permanent duty station at time of check-out. Release of records to anyone other than the owner will be done only with the owner's written permission and proper identification of the person requesting release. This includes spouses.

Health care consumer committee: This committee exists to foster communications between health care consumers and the provider, the POM Health Clinic. Direct comments or questions to your representative on the panel. Names of members and constituent-groups they represent may be obtained by calling the clinic or the Family Service Center.

Dental Care

The NPS Dental Clinic is located on the fourth floor of Herrmann Hall. All active duty personnel reporting to NPS or its tenant commands are required to check in their dental records and have a dental examination. The clinic hours are Monday through Friday, 0730-1615. Active duty sick call is conducted at 0730.

Appointments may be scheduled in person or by telephone at 646-2477.

Dependent dental care: It is recommended that all dependents avail themselves of the Delta Dependent Dental Insurance Plan, see your local PSD for enrollment. A handout of the scope and availability of dependent dental care can be obtained at the front desk of the dental department.

Emergency dental care: Emergency treatment for all eligible beneficiaries is available at any time. Emergency dental care includes control of excessive bleeding, severe infection, treatment for trauma to the teeth, jaws and associated facial structures, and treatment for the relief of pain. Duty dental personnel are on call and personnel experiencing emergencies after-hours or on weekends are requested to contact the NPS Quarterdeck at 646-2441.

Family Service Center

There are many advantages to career military service, including training, advancement, travel and retirement benefits that private industry is hard-pressed to match, but there are also drawbacks.

Compared to civilians, military families rarely have a chance to put down roots. Frequent moves disrupt family life, rarely go smoothly, and often cause real hardship.

Packing and storing household goods, finding quarters, getting children enrolled in schools, and finding employment for spouses are some of the factors that may cause anxiety for the career officer or enlisted sailor.

To help, Family Service Centers provide information about the new duty station and the surrounding communities. They specialize in providing the answers to anything and everything the military family, single parents and individual service members need to know.

Located in Room 039 (the basement), Herrmann Hall, the NPS Family Service Center helps with relocating to and from the Monterey area, individual counseling, and family counseling.

For newcomers, the center has compiled lists of short- and long-term housing available with information on schools, shopping, medical services, childcare services, telephone and utility hook-ups.

Spouses seeking employment will find lists of jobs available, as well as help in developing job contacts through local business organizations and counseling on interviewing techniques.

Once you're here, the Family Service Center stays on the job, offering referral for marital conflicts and other family problems, stress management counseling, counseling and referral for help in conquering problems with smoking, alcohol or drugs.

And, when it comes time to move on, the Family Service Center will help, with "welcome aboard" packages from around the world. Each new duty station is just a "little bit different" and those "differences" can mean problems to the unwary and unprepared.

The Family Service Center merely formalizes a longstanding Navy tradition, summed up by the words, "the Navy takes care of its own."

Pets

Pets are allowed in the Navy housing, as long as they are registered with the La Mesa Housing Office and meet appropriate licensing and vaccination requirements. There is a Veterinary Animal Hospital at Fort Ord which provides inoculations and treatment of minor injuries to your animals. The facility does not perform any operations. They are located in Building 3144, on 9th Street and 5th Avenue. For appointments or information, call 242-4994.

Fort Ord also has a Pet Care Center, Building 1065, which is at the corner of 1st Avenue and 2nd Street. The Center specializes in pet grooming and carries a wide variety of pet supplies. The Center's number is 899-0777.

Privately Owned Vehicles, Parking and Firearms

Personnel assigned to Navy commands on the Monterey Peninsula are required to register their vehicles with the NPS base police located on the second floor of Building 200.

Office hours are Monday-Friday, 0800 to 1515. Once you have registered your vehicle, you will receive a vehicle station pass, providing that you have provided the following: a valid driver's license, valid vehicle registration, proper military or government agency identification (ID card), and proof of insurance. Your policy must provide these amounts of coverage $15,000/$30,000 public liability and $5,000 for property damage.

Parking spaces at NPS are identified by the color of the curb or parking header. Brown colored spaces are open, yellow are short-term visitor spots, green curbs are reserved as indicated and require a permit, red is restricted (No Parking), and the blue spaces are designated for the disabled or handicapped. Unmarked and red spaces indicate no parking at any time.

All firearms are to be registered with the Security Office at NPS.

California Motor Vehicle Guidelines

While driving in California, use your seat belts — and place children four years of age and younger in child restraint seats. Buckling-up is mandatory under new state laws.

Another state law recently enacted requires motorists to maintain documentation of their auto insurance in the car at all times. The information required is the name of the insurance company and your policy number.

Staff Judge Advocate

The legal office provides legal services for active duty and retired military and their dependents by prior appointment at the office in Room 127, Herrmann Hall. The telephone number is 646-2506.

Uniform Information

NPS staff personnel will wear the appropriate uniform of the day during duty hours. All students wear civilian attire, except when checking in/out and on Uniform Days. Appropriate civilian attire for male students during class hours includes jackets and ties, or jackets and turtleneck sweaters. Similar "business dress" guidelines apply to female students.

Scheduled Airlines Ticket Office

SATO is located in Room 124, East Wing, Herrmann Hall. SATO provides a full range of airline ticketing and tour services for unofficial travel. Official travelers should make arrangements with their military service affiliate. For information call, 646-3355 or 646-3559.

Banking Facilities

At the Naval Postgraduate School there are convenient banking facilities in the basement of Herrmann Hall. Information concerning their services, hours of operation, and telephone numbers is provided in the yellow pages of this book.

Exchange and Commissary Facilities

The Navy Exchange has a number of stores and services on station at the Naval Postgraduate School. Services range from dry cleaning to a full-service gas station and garage.

The Army/Air Force Exchange System also has a number of stores and services on station at both Fort Ord and the Presidio of Monterey.

A large commissary is located at Fort Ord. Information concerning locations and hours of operation can be found in the yellow pages of this book.

Naval/Military Commands

The Naval Postgraduate School offers a unique and unmatched environment for its students. Officers are able to increase their technical skills and breadth of knowledge while developing specialties that are crucial to their services operational future.

According to the Chief of Naval Operations: "We need officers with a solid intellectual capacity and the vision to capitalize on evolving technology and developments. Investment in graduate education must be pursued as a priority, even in the face of fiscal austerity and competing demands for junior officers."

Founded in 1909, the Naval Postgraduate School was established during a period of rapid technological innovation, especially in fields such as steam engineering, aeronautics and radio telegraphy.

From its original focus on marine engineering, taught to ten officers in two small attic classrooms at Annapolis, the school has developed a rich tradition of excellence. Today the school offers advanced programs that include topics such as aircraft combat survivability, composites, fiber optics, robotics, artificial intelligence, database systems, lightweight satellites, HSLA steels, and arctic studies. Its students come from all U.S. military services and 25 allied nations.

Research by NPS faculty and students often results in more efficient operations for the Navy and other services. Many NPS research initiatives are also at the forefront of innovative science and technology.

The Naval Postgraduate School is fully accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, with specific engineering curricula accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, Inc.

Eighty percent of the Navy's graduate students study at Monterey, with the remainder enrolled in 50 civilian universities in other parts of the U.S. At present, more than 1,700 officers of the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps, Army, Air Force and Coast Guard, as well as U.S. government civilians and officers from 25 allied countries, are educated full-time at the Postgraduate School. Each year an additional 1,500 students attend short courses offered by NPS and tenant commands such as the Defense Resources Management Education Center and Aviation Safety Programs.

The Superintendent of the Naval Postgraduate School is a U.S. flag rank officer of the line. He is assisted by a Provost, who is the senior member of the civilian faculty, and two Navy captains who serve as directors, one of military operations, the other of programs. The Programs Office, a unique organization of the 11 academic departments, four interdisciplinary groups and 11 curricular offices, administers academic programs and direct supporting functions.

Senior naval officers staff the curricular offices. They are responsible for academic counseling and military supervision of officer students, and for defining and updating educational requirements for courses. Working closely with the Curricular Officers are Academic Associates, civilian faculty members appointed by the Provost to provide academic counsel.

The educational programs offered at NPS fall into several categories:

a. Engineering and scientific studies leading to advanced or professional degrees, including PhD.

b. Management education to the masters level.

c. Graduate education in the field of naval intelligence leading to a master of arts degree.

d. Professional education designed to build upon and broaden the base of an individual's professional naval experience.

Civilian faculty members chair the academic departments. Their primary functions are to provide quality classroom and laboratory instruction, supervise thesis work and foster research programs. The eleven academic departments and four interdisciplinary groups at NPS are:

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS

Administrative Science
Aeronautics and Astronautics
Computer Science
Electrical and Computer Engineering
Mathematics

Mechanical Engineering
Meteorology
National Security Affairs
Oceanography
Operations Research
Physics

Interdisciplinary Groups

Antisubmarine Warfare
Command Control and Communications
Electronic Warfare
Space Systems Operations and Engineering

NPS operates year-round on a quarter system, with a two-week recess during the Christmas holidays and another two-week recess following the Spring quarter (the end of June). Students have no major duties while in residence other than applying themselves to their studies.

Most NPS military graduates receive assignments at the operational, staff or command level. Many alumni have made significant contributions to their professions and to science — Admiral Arleigh "31-knot" Burke, U.S. Grant Sharp, Jr. and Hyman Rickover, to name a few.

Fourteen graduates became astronauts, including Commander Eugene A. Cernan, who circumnavigated the moon in Apollo 10, and Commander Edgar D. Mitchell, who walked on the moon as part of the Apollo 14 mission.

Other naval and military commands are based in Monterey. Some provide short courses for officers, others have research or operational missions. Here's a brief glimpse of the activities of these commands.

Defense Resources Management Education Center

The Defense Resources Management Education Center (DRMEC) was established in February 1966 by the Department of Defense. The center conducts resident and on-site defense resources management courses for all military personnel in grades 0-4 and above and military-related civilians of equal grades. The Superintendent of the Naval Postgraduate School is the director of the Defense Resources Management Education Center.

The center offers two types of courses. The four-week defense resources management course is attended by military/civilian participants, 04-06/GS11-15, who work in planning, programming, budgeting, systems analysis or resource-related activities of DOD components. The second program offered is international management education. Other courses include Senior International Defense Management and International Defense Management. Military and civilian participants attend these courses from all services and countries.

In addition to these resident programs, mobile education teams provide defense management assistance to U.S. installations and cooperating foreign countries.

Since 1966, more than 10,000 U.S. personnel and over 5,000 foreign officials have participated in the resident and on-site programs. DRMEC is located in the West Wing of Herrmann Hall on the NPS campus.

Aviation Safety Programs

NPS Aviation Safety Programs provide education for Navy squadron safety officers and aviation safety officers.

The five-week aviation safety officer course prepares squadron safety and aviation safety officers to assist their commanding officers in organizing and administering a mishap prevention program.

The five-day aviation safety command course is designed to prepare squadron commanding officers, officers-in-charge, officers screened for command, and staff safety officers of major aviation commands to take charge of an effective safety program.

About 350 ASO and 300 ASC officers graduate annually.

Defense Manpower Data Center

The Defense Manpower Data Center (formerly called Manpower Research and Data Analysis Center) is a Defense Logistics Agency organization that became a Naval Postgraduate School tenant command in July 1974. DMDC's mission is to support studies, analyses and research by the Department of Defense (DOD). DMDC serves as a central facility within DOD of manpower and personnel data collection.

DMDC's primary user is the Office of the Secretary of Defense, but other users include the manpower research functions of the military services, the Office of Management and Budget, The Rand Corporation, and other government organizations. By using its central system of military, civilian, reserve and retiree data bases, DMDC has the ability to provide analyses on the whole spectrum of DOD personnel. Located a few blocks from the Naval Postgraduate School campus, DMDC utilizes the school's computer facilities. Military liaison officers help NPS students studying manpower issues gain access to information stored at DMDC.

Fleet Numerical Oceanography Center

The Fleet Numerical Oceanography Center (FNOC) is the master computer center and controller of the Navy's worldwide Environmental Data Network. FNOC provides oceanographic and meteorological products to both U.S. and allied operating forces.

Oceanographic and meteorological observations gathered from satellites, ground, shipboard, and aircraft are transmitted to FNOC from around the world. They are checked, sorted and edited by computer analysis providing a "snapshot" of atmospheric and oceanic conditions at a given time. This "picture" produces a numerical forecast of environmental variables such as wind, temperature, pressure, moisture and sea conditions. These forecasts provide fleet units with a four-dimensional (space and time) measure of the atmosphere and the ocean.

Approximately 2,500 regional oceanographic and meteorological forecasts are transmitted daily on highspeed, computer links from the Naval Oceanography Command Centers (Guam; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Norfolk, Virginia; Rota, Spain; and Suitland, Maryland) to the National Military Command Center in the Pentagon, and to other major command centers around the world.

For certain fleet applications, FNOC provides direct environmental support to the Navy. For example, FNOC's Optimum Track Ship Routing programs aid the ship routers at the Naval Oceanography Command Centers at Norfolk and Pearl Harbor. FNOC technicians update these routes twice a day by analysing the latest ship position and course information. The optimum Path Aircraft Routing System provides a similar service for Navy, Marine and Coast Guard air crews worldwide. Utilizing weather and sea forecasts, the crews are provided the most economical route, altitude and fuel management information. Additionally, many ocean acoustic products are prepared and tailored for direct transmission to antisubmarine warfare units throughout the world.

FNOC occupies the Edwin T. Harding Building (Bldg. 700) and the Research and Administration Building (Bldg. 702), at the Naval Postgraduate School Annex.

Naval Environmental Prediction Research Facility

The Naval Environmental Prediction Research Facility (NEPRF), a field activity of the Chief of Naval Research, is the Navy's leading center for weather analysis and prediction. Stressing both science and tactics, the facility's goals are to increase the fleet's knowledge of its environment, to improve the quality of weather prediction, and to assess the effects of atmospheric phenomena for naval communications, detection/tracking and weapon systems.

The facility was established at Monterey in 1971 to work with the Naval Postgraduate School and the nearby Fleet Numerical Oceanography Center.

Interest of NEPRF ranges from small-scale, local weather to the complexities of regional forecasting and the problems of atmospheric analysis and prediction on a global scale.

Another NEPRF priority is developing meteorological support for the high technology weapons systems. Examples of current NEPRF research in this area include determining weather sensitivities for the strategic SLBM Trident submarine missile systems, LAMPS MK-III ASW platforms, cruise missiles, and high energy laser weapons.

The results of this research are published as handbooks or computer programs, and support fleet operations used by operational forecasters, tactical planners and naval commanders. Scientific papers and journal articles enhance knowledge in meteorology and related environmental sciences. Among NEPRF's current areas of research are satellite data processing and interpretation, computer forecast model development, techniques for tropical storms analysis and prediction, and studies of environmental factors affecting electro-optical system performance.

NEPRF is located at the NPS Annex, adjacent to the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

Naval Oceanography Command Detachment

The Naval Oceanography Command Detachment (NOCD) is a field unit of the Naval Oceanography Command Facility, located at Bay St. Louis, Missouri. NOCD's mission is to provide information and instruction to geophysical naval officers and enlisted aerographers. NOCD conducts a number of courses at NPS and at other Naval Oceanographic Command activities around the world.

Personnel Support Activity Detachment, Monterey

The Personnel Support Activity Detachment (PSD), Monterey is located on the first floor, in the East Wing of Herrmann Hall.

The detachment is under the command of the Personnel Support Activity, located in San Francisco. The officer in charge is under the sub-area coordination of the Superintendent, Naval Postgraduate School. PSD maintains pay and personnel records, and provides pay and personnel service to all Navy-sponsored travelers assigned to the Monterey Peninsula.

Naval Security Group Detachment, Monterey

Established in 1976, the Naval Security Group Detachment Monterey, is located at the Presidio of Monterey. They provide support for approximately 350 enlisted and 60 naval officers in resident training at Defense Languages Institute.

Naval Telecommunication Center, Monterey

A Naval Telecommunication Center (NTCC) is located in Building 700 at the NPS Annex. Staffed by one officer and 24 enlisted personnel, the center is manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

NTCC Monterey provides communication support for more than 22 Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard activities ashore and afloat on the Monterey Peninsula. NTCC processes an average of 62,000 messages each month.

NTCC Monterey is a component of Naval Communication Station Stockton, located in Stockton, California.

Naval Reserve Center, Pacific Grove

The Naval Reserve Center, Pacific Grove is located on 1352 Lighthouse Avenue, in Pacific Grove. The primary mission of the seven active duty members is to train and supervise the four units assigned there.

NRC is under the operational and administrative control of the Commander, Naval Reserve Readiness Command Region Twenty, located in San Francisco. NRC supports approximately 105 officers and enlisted Naval Reservists on the Monterey Peninsula and surrounding counties. A variety of units are assigned to NRC, including: ship repair, Weapons Station Concord Detachment, Naval Hospital Oakland and a Seabee Detachment. Along with the operational and administrative commitments, NRC maintains a liaison with the Naval Postgraduate School and other commands on the Monterey peninsula.

Other Military Commands

The Naval Postgraduate School also is home for a number of other commands. They include the Defense Investigative Service and the Naval Investigative Service (which provide services for the Naval Postgraduate School), Fort Ord, the Defense Language Institute/Presidio of Monterey, and other military installations in the area.

The largest military installation in the area is Fort Ord, located six miles north of Monterey. Fort Ord is the home of the Seventh Infantry Division, the Command Developments Experimentation Command, Silas B. Hays Hospital and other Army units. Sprawling from the Monterey Bay shore to the Salinas Valley, Fort Ord covers some 28,000 acres of rolling plains and rugged hills and sand dunes.

Adjacent to Fort Ord is Fritzche Army Airfield. Although the airfield is used mainly by helicopters, some army fixed wing aircraft also are located there.

Overlooking Fisherman's Wharf and Cannery Row in Monterey is the Presidio of Monterey. The Presidio is the home of the Defense Language Institute, where some 38 languages and dialects are taught to more than 3,500 residents students of the military each year.

Recreation Activities

Known for its natural beauty, the Monterey Peninsula offers abundant recreational activities for the whole family.

Annual events include: the AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament, California Rodeo in Salinas, California International Airshow, Laguna Seca Races, and the Garlic and Artichoke Festivals.

Recreational facilities and activities ranging from sailing lessons to tours of Los Angeles and San Francisco are available for military members and their dependents through the Naval Postgraduate School and Fort Ord recreational departments.

Community Events

The AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament, formerly the Crosby Pro-Am, began in January 1987, on the famed Pebble Beach golf links.

The AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament, like its predecessor, is one of the biggest local events of the year and is played on Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Spyglass golf courses.

The winner of the Naval Postgraduate School's annual stroke-play golf tournament becomes an alternate in the AT&T Pro-Am and earns a chance to play as an amateur partner to a professional.

Aviation superstars, including the Blue Angels, headline the California International Airshow held in Salinas each Fall. Military, antique and experimental aircraft also are displayed. The show is staged for charity under the auspices of the Monterey County Airshow Association, a non-profit group.

Laguna Seca Raceway attracts some of the biggest names and upcoming stars in auto racing. They match their competitive driving skills on the 1.9-mile course each year, located on Highway 68 between Salinas and Monterey. The racing begins in May for a seven-month season and includes motorcycle and historic auto racing.

For those interested in music, the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and the Monterey Bay Symphony Orchestra perform six concert series throughout the year. Sites for the concerts include the Naval Postgraduate School's King Hall, Carmel's Sunset Theatre and Sherwood Hall in the Salinas Community Center.

Each May, NPS hosts a "Concert in the Park" on a Sunday afternoon.

The public is invited to this free concert in front of Herrmann Hall. People often enjoy a picnic lunch on the lawn prior to the performance.

ble at the Fort Ord Recreation Center located in Building 3109 on 4th Avenue. The telephone number is 242-7322/3486.

The International Community

More than 290 International officers from over 25 nations are students at the Naval Postgraduate School. These officers and their families represent a wide range of backgrounds and cultures, and are a special asset for the school and the Monterey community. To help meet their needs, a volunteer group of Americans from the military and civilian communities work with the school in several ways. For example, English classes for International wives, frequent social events for the Internationals and their families are arranged; sightseeing and sports expeditions are held regularly; and national crafts and cultures are exhibited on an annual International Day.

Volunteer American families also act as sponsors for the International students and their families. Sponsors assist their International family in the difficult first few days after arrival, help with special problems, and share American culture. Above all, they often form warm and rewarding friendships. Information about the International Committee or the sponsor program is available from the International Education Office, 646-2186.

Wives' Clubs

The Officer Students' Wives' Club (OSWC) is an organization for the spouse of any student attached to the Naval Postgraduate School. The club is composed of over 20 committees including Red Cross, Adobe Tour and La Mesa Fun Run Committees. The OSWC also has a long list of activity classes to choose from that are taught by OSWC members. Each month the OSWC holds a business meeting and a social function. There are two publications associated with the OSWC: The Classmate, an award-winning magazine and The Pink Flyer, a newsletter. These are distributed through the Student Mail Center each month.

At the beginning of each academic quarter the OSWC sponsors a Welcome Aboard Coffee to acquaint the new students and their spouses with the area. Spouses of new students are also contacted by the curricular representative, who acts as a liaison between incoming spouses and the various curricula.

The Staff Wives Club of the Naval Postgraduate School was organized in 1947. The purpose of the club is to promote fellowship among the families of the Naval Postgraduate School and to provide designated services.

Monthly meetings provide a wide variety of cultural, informative and fun activities. They also provide a great opportunity for comradery and lasting friendships among the staff wives.

Religious Services

Armed Services YMCA

The YMCA of the Monterey Peninsula is located at the corner of Webster and El Estero Streets in Monterey. It is one of 26 YMCAs around the world that emphasizes programs for the military. Programs range from fitness, family outings and activities, volunteer leadership experiences in coaching and refereeing, to family-style dinners on Sunday afternoons twice a month for both active duty and retired.

Other activities include outdoor "challenge" events, community service projects, special clubs and strategic games, fencing, karate, road races, drama, international and cultural events, and involvement in community organizations.

A special feature of the YMCA is a Visitor Information Center that provides year-round information to military and civilian visitors or new arrivals to Monterey.

The branch offers a bachelor's of Science/Arts in Accounting, Human Relations, Management and Public Administration. A master's of Arts/Science is also offered in Business Administration (M.B.A.), Finance, Financial Planning, Health Services Management, Human Resource Management, Marketing, Public Administration and Taxation. Five undergraduate and three graduate degrees are offered in various fields of administration and management. For more information, call 373-4176.

Monterey Institute of International Studies

Established in 1955 to teach foreign languages and culture, Monterey Institute has evolved into an independent, upper division and graduate school. Degrees are accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

MIIS has four academic divisions: international management, international policy studies, language studies, and translation and interpretation. In addition, masters programs are available for students interested in careers as language teachers. The institute also offers an eight week summer intensive language program. For further information, call 647-4123.

The Monterey Peninsula

The Monterey Peninsula rests at the edge of the Monterey Bay, and features some of the most beautiful landscape in California, if not the U.S. Author Robert Louis Stevenson, who lived on the peninsula for a short time, was so impressed with its beauty he used the locale as a setting for his novel, Treasure Island.

Monterey was also the setting for much of the state's history and development. First sighted in 1542 by the Portuguese explorer Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, Monterey Bay remained unexplored for nearly two centuries. Interest in the California Coast increased, however, when Spain needed a harbor for the Spanish ships returning trade from Manila.

The next European to arrive in the area was Sebastian Vizcaino in 1603. Vizcaino named the Bay Monterey after the Viceroy of New Spain. In his description to the King of Spain, Vizcaino said, "... (It is) the best port that could be desired, for besides being sheltered from all winds it has many pines for masts and yards, and live oaks and water in great quantity all near the shore."

The Monterey area remained as a home for the native Indians in the area. Exploration of the area was limited until 1769 when the Spanish expedition commander Gaspar de Portola passed through the area while searching for San Francisco Bay. Leaving two wooden crosses atop the high ridges above Monterey, Portola returned to San Diego. The California missionary, Father Junipero Serra, learned of Portola's discovery and was certain that he had found the bay that Viacaino had described over the century and a half before.

In March 1770, Portola began his march northward once again while Father Serra left San Diego by ship. Arriving in Monterey, Portola raised the standard of King Carlos III, threw stones and pulled up some grass, following the Spanish custom for claiming new land.

Father Serra built Mission San Carlos Borromeo in what is now Carmel, while Portola built the Presidio. The mission was the second, and subsequent headquarters, of his many California missions. Father Serra converted many native Indians to Catholicism and cultivated a great deal of land for vineyards and raising cattle. Monterey became the center of operations for further exploration of the Spanish territory. In the 1790s, British and U.S. ships paid brief visits described as cordial but rather coolly received.

The U.S. challenged Mexico's sovereignty over Monterey in 1842 when Commodore Thomas Ap Catesby Jones landed in the Bay and was told at the Customs House that the U.S. and Mexico were at war. Marching onto the Presidio, Commodore Jones demanded its surrender. The commandante told his aggressors that everything in sight was theirs. The U.S. flag was raised above the Presidio without a shot being fired. The next day, Commodore Jones learned Mexico was not a hostile country and returned to the Presidio to apologize. Monterey was still part of Mexico.

In 1846, the U.S. returned once again to claim Monterey. Commodore John Drake Sloat aboard the USS Savannah captured Monterey with no resistance on July 7th and the whole territory of California soon fell into American hands. The Gold Rush followed, and California became a state in 1850, with Monterey as the first state capital.

In the years to follow, a Scottish entrepreneur named David Jacks began acquiring many parcels of land. One of California's first millionaires, Jacks wanted to develop Monterey into a wealthy resort area. Jacks made few friends because of his business dealings, which the townspeople considered dishonest. But he made perhaps his best deal with railroad tycoons Leland Stanford, Mark Hopkins, Collis P. Huntington and Charles Crocker. He sold a large portion of property on the peninsula and a narrow gauge railroad line to these men and made $5.00 an acre on land for which he only paid 12 cents an acre.

Stanford, Hopkins, Huntington, and Crocker became known as the "Big Four" because of their financial clout. They formed the Pacific Improvement Company to consolidate their holdings in Southern and Central Pacific Railroads, town sites, lumber forests and coal mines. The Big Four began to implement Jacks' plan to transform Monterey into an exclusive resort.

The Monterey that was once a sleepy Mexican village of fishermen, farmers and reclusive artists was soon to die. With the collapse of the whaling industry, the economy was reduced to a sluggish trade. The sardine fishermen and farmers could not provide enough cash flow throughout the year to the area.

The hotel the Big Four were planning to build would give the Monterey economy a much needed boost. The hotel would increase the number of fares for the railroad and provide jobs for the local townspeople in the kitchens, parlors, stables, grounds and shops. Named Hotel Del Monte, it was built by Southern and Central Pacific railroadmen in 100 days.

hotel had 17,000 visitors a year, nearly eight times the population of Monterey. Disaster struck early in the morning of April 1, 1887, as fire swept through the "Grande Dame of America" reducing it to ashes. Fortunately, there were no deaths in the blaze, as everyone escaped before the fire spread throughout the building. The cause of the fire is buried deep in controversy, with several persons accused of starting the fire. Evidence pointed to arson, since investigators found plugs to the central fire mains removed, which sabotaged fire-fighting efforts and firesprinkler systems.

The hotel was resurrected quickly, as the Big Four pledged to rebuild the Del Monte the very day of the fire. Railroad fares to Monterey were important to the Pacific Improvement Company, and Southern and Central Pacific Railroads expected to lose $25,000 a month while the Del Monte was being rebuilt. Like a phoenix, the new hotel rose from the ashes at the very spot where the first's ashes lay. This time it was to be an even more lavish establishment, with two additional, massive wings trailing towards the Bay. The splendor was restored to the Del Monte by the beginning of 1888, with Charles Crocker's name once again heading the register. Business was as brisk as before and just as prestigious. Notable guests included Andrew Carnegie, President Benjamin Harrison, and the rough rider himself, Teddy Roosevelt.

Times changed, and the Victorian era that dated the Del Monte was not in step with the rest of the world. Business slowed with the First World War, and the

In 1880, 110 years since the landing of Junipero Serra at Monterey, the Hotel Del Monte opened its doors with Charles Crocker heading the top of the register. Guests arrived from San Francisco aboard the "Lightning Express" train by way of the Watsonville-Monterey line, and were greeted by a thousand gas jets reflected by nearly as many mirrors. The grounds of the Del Monte lay before them, 126 acres of landscaped gardens planted with hundreds of rare trees and shrubs. The hotel expanded its facilities, adding a dairy and fish hatchery to the already existing guest houses, tennis courts, croquet plots, archery grounds, polo fields, Roman plunge swimming pool, and a bathing pavilion with 210 dressing rooms.

The Del Monte became known as the West Coast's most exclusive resort. By the mid 1880s, the Pacific Improvement Company hired Samuel Morse as a new manager for the hotel. Morse, grand nephew of the inventor of the telegraph, was given full responsibility for liquidating the Pacific Improvement Company's other holdings. Eventually, Morse saw the possibility to revive the hotel's prosperity. Along with associates, he bought Pacific Improvement Company's holdings on the peninsula, including the hotel. A lively orchestra played past the midnight curfew as before, as Morse sought to broaden the Del Monte's appeal.

On October 29, 1924, disaster struck again, with another fire breaking out in the early hours of the morning. Fortunately, the late-hour dancing paid off because an orchestra member smelled smoke at about 3:30 in the morning. In order to contain the fire, firemen dynamited the ballroom from the floor below and thus saved the two hotel wings. Again, no one was killed.

Reconstruction was not as fast this time, and the hotel was completed in 1926. At a cost of over two million dollars, the hotel was as lavish as ever. The hotel fell on hard times during the Depression and the Second World War proved to be too much for the hotel to survive. The management decided to sell out and offered the hotel and its grounds to the Army and Navy.

The Navy leased the hotel in early 1943 with an option to buy, and set up a preflight training center. The ballroom which previously accommodated 600 guests at dinner now seated over 1,200 flight officer candidates.

After the war, the Navy negotiated with the Del Monte Properties Company to buy the hotel and other plots of land on the peninsula (some 627 acres) for $2.5 million. By this time the Naval Academy no longer had the room needed for the Postgraduate School. In 1951, the school moved west to Monterey. The Naval Postgraduate School has expanded through the years, and is a major educational institution serving all the branches of the military, federal employees and students from allied countries.

The Monterey Peninsula Today

Today, Monterey County embraces almost two million acres of mostly mountainous terrain extending 100 miles along the Pacific coast. Salinas is the county seat.

Climatically, the Monterey Peninsula resembles other areas of the central California coast, without extremes of heat or cold and moderately low yearly rainfall. The sun shines most of the year. There are two seasons: the dry summer season extending from May to October, and the wet season from November to April. Weather changes are infrequent from day to day and week to week.

The Peninsula is an ideal playland, with forests, beaches, parks, golf courses and the nearby ocean. Nearly a million people visit the county's two state parks, Big Sur and Point Lobos. Countless others sun on the beaches, play golf or tennis, fish, hunt, camp or take scenic excursions. Recently, the Peninsula added the largest aquarium in the nation to its attractions.

Numerous special events are held each year. There are salmon derbies, yacht races, dog shows, parades, art and crafts exhibits, car races, rodeos, and antique car shows. The AT&T Pro-Am Golf Tournament is held here annually, as are the Salinas Valley Fair at King City in May, the Monterey County Fair in August, and the Monterey Jazz Festival in September.

Monterey

Monterey is a appropriate home for the Naval Postgraduate School, a place with a long love affair with the sea. Much of this heritage can be relived along Fisherman's Wharf and Cannery Row, where the fishing canneries once boomed. Only the hulls of the buildings remain, and are now occupied by restaurants and exotic shops. Monterey's heritage is also preserved in the many adobe houses and other buildings that played a significant role in history. The old Customs House stands near the wharf, where Commodore John Drake Sloat raised the United States flag over Monterey in 1846. Colton Hall played an even greater part in California's history in 1849 when the first State Constitutional Convention was held there. The Mission San Carlos Borromeo was founded by Father Junipero Serra in 1770.

The Stevenson House is also one of the more notable buildings in Monterey, where author Robert Louis Stevenson came 6,000 miles from Scotland to be with his fiancée, Fanny Osbourne.

A whaling station, California's first theater, and many other buildings also offer a delightful travel to the past. The new and exciting Monterey Bay Aquarium opened its doors in 1984 with the slogan, "The Fish Are Back." Virtually an instant success, the aquarium shattered all annual attendance records within ten months. The exhibits focus on the plants and animals of the Monterey Bay, offering its visitors a beautiful and unique perspective of the nearby undersea world.

Pacific Grove

Pacific Grove was founded in 1875 by California Methodists, who established the community as a religious retreat center. The city is best known for the millions of Monarch butterflies that migrate there each winter, giving the town its unofficial title "Butterfly Town U.S.A." Each year the butterflies migrate from Canada and the state of Washington to a favorite tree in Pacific Grove. Even naturalists are mystified by this annual migration for, although it is the butterflies' first trip, they head unerringly for the same trees each year. They arrive in late October and leave in March. A few strays hang around all year long. The penalty for disturbing the butterflies is $500.

Pacific Grove is a residential, incorporated community of some 17,995 people and occupies the sandy slope between Point Pinos and New Monterey. The pineclad heights of its southern boundary offer a striking contrast to the wide, white dunes on the west and the dark, rugged shoreline of the north, challenging the long surge of the Pacific.

A half mile from the center of town is an 18-hole golf course and a protected beach with secluded bathing coves and picnic grounds. Pacific Grove's municipal flower beds along the water's edge are world famous. Scientists come from all over the world to study the marine life off the Pacific Grove beaches. The Hopkins Marine Laboratories of Stanford University are here, as well as the Hopkins Marine Life

Refuge, a two-mile mile stretch of beach extending out to a depth of 60 feet.

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History contains unusual and interesting exhibits of butterflies, marine and bird life, plants, shells, Indian artifacts and historical presentations. It is open every day but Monday with no admission charge.

Seventeen Mile Drive

The Del Monte Forest is a private community known the world over its natural scenic beauty. It has been attracting visitors since the 1890s when as many as 50 tallyhoses (four-in-horse-drawn coaches) made three daily sightseeing excursions carrying guests 17 miles round trip from the original Hotel Del Monte in Monterey.

You can drive here through pine forests and groves of Monterey cypress and along a coastline of singular beauty. You will usually see wildlife such as deer on the golf courses, and the sea lions, seals, and otters in the water and on rocks offshore. You can enjoy golf at one of the several outstanding courses, or ride over 34 miles of beautiful bridle paths, or compete in major equestrian events. As a spectator you can watch polo and rugby matches, championship tennis, the AT&T National Pro-

Am Golf Tournament, or any of the other tournaments, trials, and other sports events held here each year. The Lodge at Pebble Beach, separated from Carmel Bay by the 18th fairway of the famous Pebble Beach Golf Links, has a reputation among sophisticated travelers that is unequalled by any other resort.

Carmel Valley

Carmel Valley extends from the mouth of the Carmel River to the Jamesburg area 26 miles east. Post offices are located in Carmel Valley Village and the Mid-Valley Shopping Center. The population is 7,500. In the Valley are several good resorts and numerous tennis courts. The sun shines a little more often in Carmel Valley than the rest of the Peninsula, and it's usually a few degrees warmer there. Carmel Valley

Village and three other shopping centers have restaurants, art galleries, intriguing shops and general retail services.

Carmel-By-The-Sea

Less than 10 minutes south from the Naval Postgraduate School, Carmel-By-The-Sea lies on the oak and pine covered sand dunes of Carmel Bay, with perfect white sand beaches edged by picturesque cypress trees. Carmel's beautiful beach is city owned for its entire length and is accessible to visitors and residents alike. Although treacherous tides make swimming dangerous, the beach is excellent for sunbathing and picnicking.

Carmel is known for its charming shops. Most of these shops are small and specialize in one type of merchandise, from candles and brassware to imported foods and golfing apparel. Within the business district are many secluded shopping courts of great charm and character.

Carmel also has a large community of artists and craftsmen whose works can be seen in the art galleries and studios of the village.

There are two little theaters and two cinemas. The community supports many excellent musical events, including concerts by a local orchestra and the annual Carmel Bach Festival held in July at the Sunset Center. Outdoor music, dance and theatrical performances are held at Forest Theater, and there is an annual series of dance programs at the Sunset Center.

Excellent restaurants serve a variety of food, from French haute cuisine to Oriental fare. There are many hotels and motels available, both close to and along the coast. If possible, reservations should be made in advance.

Salinas Valley

The lush, fertile checkerboard of farms in the Salinas Valley form one of the most productive agricultural areas in the U.S. In fact, the valley's agricultural industry is the leading contributor to Monterey County's economy. Annually, Monterey County pulls in $658 million from farming, supplying the country with fresh lettuce, artichokes, garlic, chili peppers, and a host of other farm products and livestock.

Salinas, with a population of over 82,000 and located 17 miles from Monterey, is the county seat and hub of the valley's activity. With light industry and the military supplying a wider economic base, Salinas is a city with a variety of lifestyles. Just north of the city limits is a large modern shopping center. Housing costs often run less in the valley, making Salinas a definite option to consider.

Other cities in the valley include King City, Prunedale and Soledad, all of which offer a different view of life on the peninsula.

One thing you won't want to miss is the Salinas California Rodeo in July, a nationally known roundup.

Seaside and Marina

Seaside, the largest city on the Monterey Peninsula, is located in the sunshine belt on the coast, bordering Monterey to the north. Primarily a residential and retail business community, Seaside offers a variety of homes and homesites with panoramic views of Monterey Bay.

In recent years, Seaside has grown dramatically through redevelopment projects and commercial and private development. The population is 36,291, including part of the residential area of Fort Ord incorporated within Seaside's city limits. The newly-constructed Monterey Peninsula Auto Center, located in Seaside, provides complete auto sales and service. The majority of auto dealers have moved into this complex. The California Department of Motor Vehicles is adjacent to the new modern Seaside City Hall.

Marina, with a population of 22,865, is located just north of Seaside and Fort Ord. Primarily a residential community, the city offers a good variety of moderate-priced housing. There is a beach located at nearby Marina State Park.
